It is rumored that the A. O. U. W Building Association are considering the construction of another story to their elegant building. A small piece of exceedingly rich gold quartz float was found on the opposite the Southern Pacific Hotel the other day. General satisfaction is expressed hereabouts over the appointment of

Geo. Christ, as the first Collector of the Arizona Customs District. The Colorado is still rising and, unless the waters soon recede, will in a short time reach to within two or three feet of the much vaunted high water mark of 1884. Yuma County is pre-eminently adapted to raisin culture. Several of the principal raisin growers of Fresno nty California, have expressed their intention of embarking in the business on a large scale within the oming year. The public shool will close for the ummer vacation in a little more than two weeks hence. During the ten months now nearly past but two weeks have been given up to vacations making an almost continuous term. We venture the assertion that there are but few districts in Arizona that can make so flattering a showing. The outlook for the coming of new railroads to this section is unusually bright. It is notorious that two or more competing lines mean everything to a town, involving necessarily, three months he has shipped out of the past three months he has shipped out of penses. Yuma county will welcome

A Novel Celebration.

Last Thursday, says the Tucson Citizen, was a day long to be remem-bered by the residents at the Reales, the occasion being the celebration of having a general circulation therein, for not San Isidro, the patron saint of harvest. The procession started from the northern end of the settlement, preceded by the San Xavier band and the saint, who in all the pomp and importance of his calling, was carried from farm to farm, blessing its owner and praying for a bountiful harvest as it journeyed on. At each place there was an abundance of wine, tiz-win and other good things, and the throng of worshippers and lookers-on increased as each house was reached, some, however, falling weary by the road side.
